Vol. 3—No. 34 GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1923 THREE CENTS

H. S. WEBB RETURNS AN OPTIMIST

Thanks Rotary for Assistance in New York Connection

EAST LOOKING WEST

Finds Everyone Talking California As Ultimate Destination

H. S. Webb, who is soon to take possession of his beautiful new department store on Brand boulevard and Wilson avenue, has returned from a transcontinental trip realizing as he never realized before, how fortunate is his lot in being a resident of Southern California. He feels that the great possession with which he has returned is the mental panorama he acquired of the United States, not its physical aspects alone, but its business conditions and prospects which are roseate with the optimistic outlook which all parts of the country share with regard to the trade of 1923.

The most important result of his tour, from a personal viewpoint, was the establishment of a valuable New York connection through which he can secure constant importations. This, strange as it may seem, was brought about through the Rotary, which gave him introduction to parties who could properly represent him there and upon whom he could depend to give him the sort of up-to-date service he desires. In speaking of the matter he said: "I came away feeling more than ever that the spirit of Rotary service had accomplished for me in a business way, something I had never expected to realize in the business contacts it had made possible."

Another thing Mr. Webb has brought back is the feeling that California has a wonderful future. "The east," said he, "is sold on California. Everybody is talking California and it is in the minds of all the people. When they have it that bad, we are bound to go ahead. It cannot be stopped. To appreciate residence in California one should go away for about a month. Even that short time will make you realize what a wonderful privilege it is to live in this state.

"The east is in fine shape however, in a business way. I went via the Southern Pacific and New Orleans and found business good in the south, although there is a shortage of cotton. Not enough has been raised to supply the demand. We should have at least 11 millions and the south never raises more than 9 millions. But the mills are busy, running day and night shifts and everybody is optimistic.

"In New York I found conditions excellent. Business is good and the merchants who had come in from all parts of the country had the same report to make. Even the places that have been stagnant are looking up and everybody feels confident that 1923 will be a good year.

"New York is money mad. Nothing but money appears to count and commercial life is under great pressure. It is the great clearing house to which everything from the other side of the water as well as this side, comes for a market. Buyers from every state in the union congregate there twice a year to get the styles.

"A great amount of building is going on in New York nevertheless the wholesale district is so congested that the most beautiful things imported from all parts of the world are often sold from dingy little offices into which a ray of sunshine never enters.

"Thousands of factories for the manufacture of clothing are conducted in lofts by Hebrews who can scarcely speak English. Here you will see hundreds of girls doing piece-work under fearful strain of trying to turn out a product that will yield them scarcely a living wage, and under the most unfavorable conditions. We do not realize the price paid in life and happiness for some of the things we wear. New York has its laws for affording some measure of protection to garment workers but it cannot do away with the overstrain of piece production.

"The main thing I went to New York for was to make proper connection to give me the latest styles at all times that are considered correct, and I feel tremendously indebted to the Rotary for the help it gave me in that regard.

"I stopped in Chicago for a few days and went through the wholesale houses there. My return trip from there was made via the Royal Gorge and Denver through the Rockies to Ogden and Salt Lake City and on to San Francisco. Strange as it may seem, the coldest weather and gr[illegible]th of snow on the entir[illegible]s encountered in eas[illegible]fornia. Just the other side[illegible]ee the mercury registered[illegible]ees below zero and on [illegible]mit the snow lay 17 feet [illegible]

BOY SCOUTS ARE GUESTS OF THEATRE

Manager Howe of the Glendale Entertains 100 Members

MANAGER CHEERED

Host Is Firm Booster for the Movement and a Member

More than 100 Boy Scouts of the Verdugo Hills district were the guests last evening of William A. Howe, lessee and manager of the Glendale theatre. Mr. Howe designated last evening as Boy Scout night and in addition to the regular program the beautiful and dramatic scout picture "Knights of the Square Table" was shown as a special feature.

Scout Executive Harold Benner on behalf of the Verdugo Hills district thanked Mr. Howe for his generosity in having the Scouts as his guests. This was followed by lusty and hilarious cheering for Mr. Howe by the Scouts themselves. Mr. Benner said that Mr. Howe's arrangement of Boy Scout night came at a most appropriate time in that it came on the eve of the thirteenth anniversary of the Boy Scout movement in America.

As an added attraction the Boy Scout orchestra played several selections and according to the applause they received they made a big hit.

Mr. Howe is a member of the Verdugo Hills Scout council and in remarking on the Scout night he said: "I am for the Boy Scout movement absolutely and whenever there comes an opportunity to boost their work I am only too glad to lend a hand."

INDUSTRIAL SHOW TO BE STAGED IN GLENDALE

Contract Is Signed With C. of C. and Credit Associatoin

The contract for the Glendale Industrial exhibit which is to be put on between May 25 and June 4, at 11:30 o'clock, was signed this morning by representatives of the Glendale chamber of commerce, the Glendale Credit association and Harry L. Levitt, who will put on the show. From this moment plans for making this one of the most wonderful expositions ever held, will go forward.

The decision to sign with Mr. Levitt was reached at a meeting held at the chamber of commerce at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. At that meeting were representatives of the chamber of commerce, of the Glendale Credit association and Mr. Levitt. Mr. Levitt told just what he would do for one-half of the proceeds, and the results reached seemed satisfactory to everyone present. It was decided that the remaining half of the proceeds from this exposition, if any are left after the expenses are paid, will be divided equally between the chamber of commerce and the Glendale Credit association.

When interviewed this morning, Secretary Rhoades had the following to say with regard to how the money should be spent in the event there is any remaining:

"The money that will be received by the chamber of commerce will be used for advertising Glendale. I do not know what disposition will be made by the Glendale Credit association of its share of the proceeds. However, the committee from that organization that is assisting in handling this thing will recommend to that body that its share, also, be used for advertising Glendale and not for any private purpose."

The big feature of the exposition will be the selection of the queen, who will be chosen by popular vote. Beginning some time next week ballots will be placed in many of the leading business establishments in Glendale, Burbank, Van Nuys, Pasadena and other surrounding communities. These will be counted as the voting progresses and the lady receiving the largest number will be declared "queen of the festival."

The exact location of the exposition has not been decided on, but it is expected that it will be somewhere on North Brand boulevard. The matter of having it under a tent or within a walled enclosure is also to be decided later.

BRAND LAND OWNERS TO FIGHT ON

Adopt Recommendations for Cost of Lighting the Boulevard

Would Have Bill Split Between General and Public Service Funds

After considerable discussion, members of the Brand Boulevard Improvement association at their meeting Wednesday night went on record as approving recommendation that the cost of maintenance [illegible]ights on Brand boulevard [illegible]ld be equally divided between [illegible] general fund and the public [illegible]vice department. A committee [illegible]s appointed to present the rec[illegible]mmendation to the city council at [illegible]s meeting tonight. It was the [illegible]nderstanding of the association that the council intends to take action tonight on a proposed ordinance assessing the entire cost of maintenance against owners of abutting property, which members considered unfair.

President Jones reported that the committee appointed to confer with P. E. officials relative to the lowering of tracks north of California would be unable to secure an appointment until the middle of next week, because high officials of the east are here on matters of importance to the corporation and exceedingly busy. Mr. Pontius had indicated the committee could be received next Wednesday.

A report was made by the committee appointed on the opening of Burchett westward to San Fernando road and eastward from Brand to Verdugo road. Further recommendations were adopted to be presented by the committee to the city council.

200 MASONS OF ALL ORDERS BID FAREWELL TO DAD RAVENSCROFT

Knights Templar, Royal Arch, Blue Lodge, Eastern Star, White Shrine and De Molay Auxiliaries Follow Brother to Last Resting Place

HIGH HONOR TO THE DEPARTED MEMBER

Past Commander Charles Peckham and Prelate O. E. Von Oven Conduct the Symbolic Services of the Ancient Rites

By CORINNE ORFF

Evidencing their love and esteem, over 200 members of Glendale commandery of Knights Templar, Royal Arch and Blue Lodge Masons, with whom he had walked the pilgrimage of life, attended the funeral services of Charles Henry Ravenscroft, held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, February 7, 1923, at the First Methodist church, and which was also attended by 150 friends and acquaintances of the Eastern Star and White Shrine membership, and "just friends" whom he had won by his sunny disposition. It was one of the largest Masonic funerals ever held in Glendale.

Complying with the request of the deceased the services were conducted by the members aof Glendale Commandery of Knights Templar, of which Roy V. Hogue is commander. Past Commander Charles Peckham, an intimate friend of Mr. Ravenscroft, and Prelate O. E. Von Oven were in charge of the symbolical services of the order. The Sir Knights, the members of the Blue lodges, of which H. W. Strong and John Cleeland are worshipful masters; Royal Arch Masons, with F. A. Collins as high priest; and William Thompson of the De Molay order, marched in a body from the Masonic Temple to the church, in full Templar uniform and Masonic regalia. Clem Moore was captain general in charge of the line of march.

The funeral service of the order was read by Past Commander Peckham, with readings from the Scriptures by Mr. Von Oven, prelate. Mr. Rittenhouse, recorder of Glendale Commandery, read the scroll giving a brief account of the life of the departed brother, who was a member of Unity Lodge, Unity Chapter and Glendale Commandery at the time of his death. Preceding the sermon Dr. Joseph Marple sang a very beautiful number, the theme of which was "The Toils of the Road Will Seem Nothing When We Get to the End of the Way," accompanied at the pipe organ by Don Lindley.

Reverend W. B. Collins of Glendale, who has been an intimate friend of Mr. and Mrs. Ravenscroft for over thirty years, having known them in New Albany, Indiana, delivered the address on "A Man and a Mason," explaining the synonymous meaning of the terms and the principles of immortality included in Masonic teachings. An account of his sermon is given more in detail elsewhere in this issue.

Dr. Rasmus, pastor of the First Methodist church, offered a very beautiful prayer, saying: "The long trail has ended. The gateways of another life have opened and the soul of this brother, beloved in our midst, has gone into the unseen; and the great, gracious hand of God has closed the door. Some day it will open again and these men of a noble order and those who mourn today will have the permission of going through to test the wonders of immortality. As we stand at the bier of this Christian man, we ask that the benediction of His divine grace may rest upon the hearts that are bereaved. Deeper than the grave out yonder is the grace which has been dug in our hearts, and the life that has fled cannot come back again."

The services at the church were closed by Mr. Von Oven and Mr. Peckham, after which the body, which was surrounded with flowers that banked the chancel of the church, was escorted by the members of the Masonic bodies to the Masonic Temple, from which it was followed to Forest Lawn cemetery by the members in automobiles. The guard of honor was composed of Past Commanders of Glendale Commandery E. K. Daniels, Mattison B. Jones, Clem Moore, C. L. Peckham, David G. Crofton and Daniel Campbell. The pallbearers were Dwight W. Stephenson and Newton Van Why of the Blue Lodge; Thomas F. Carter and Dale Peet of the Royal Arch Chapter; Charles Day, right eminent past grand commander of the state of Indiana and intimate friend of Mr. Ravenscroft; W. W. Worley, Roy V. Hogue and Robert M. Grumbling of the Commandery. Prelate Von Oven was in charge of the Templar services at the grave. The Jewel City Undertaking company was in charge of the details.

Mr. Ravenscroft passed away Monday afternoon, February 5, 1923, after an illness of ten days. He was born in New Albany, Indiana, May 31, 1855, and had been a resident of Glendale for the past ten years. He is survived by a widow; also a daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Ellis and her son Charles, of San Jose.

WATER RATES LOWEST HERE IT IS SAID

R. E. Johnston Makes Report of Investigations to Exchange Club

HIGHER METER RATE

Finds Installation Charges Not Refunded in Cities of Like Size

That the water rates in Glendale are lower than those in the other cities anywhere near similar size in Southern California, was reported by R. E. Johnson, chairman of the civics committee to the Glendale Exchange club yesterday.

A short time ago Mr. Johnson sent letters of inquiry to the following cities: Long Beach, Pasadena, San Diego, Santa Barbara, Bakersfield, Fullerton, Anaheim, Ontario, Santa Monica, Riverside, Redlands and Alhambra.

In all of these cities, in addition to having a higher water rate, charges are made for meter installation and in no case is the money thus charged refunded.

All of these cities make meter connections in the streets and alleys and not in the parkways. Eight out of twelve do not make service to the parkway at the time the main is laid when the property is vacant.

SUBSCRIBERS HEAR PLANS FOR HOTEL

Absorption of Old Ambrosini Company Is Started at Once

MONEY SUBSCRIBED

Directors Are Elected; Hotel Architects Heard From

The initial steps in the forming of the new hotel company which will build the proposed hotel at the corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway, were taken at the meeting of the subscribers to this project at city hall Wednesday night.

The movement for the absorption of the old Ambrosini Hotel company by the new organization was started. Just as soon as this is accomplished, which, it is stated, would be within four or five days, if nothing unforeseen occurs to block the project, the work of issuing stock and collecting the money for the purchase of the site will go forward as rapidly as possible.

The meeting elected the following five boosters for the hotel to serve as the directors for the new organization: C. W. Ingledue, Mabel Tight, T. H. Mink, C. F. Stuart and S. C. Kinch.

The meeting was turned over to C. W. Ingledue, who was elected emporary chairman. Herman Nelson was selected as temporary secretary.

Mr. Ingledue gave a brief outline of the hotel project, and stated that all of the money necessary for the purchase of the lot has been subscribed. The conditions on which the ground may be secured are as follows: $50,000 cash, Mr. Ambrosini, the seller, agreeing to take a mortgage for $10,000 on three lots that are not to to built on, and $15,000 in the stock in the new concern. Mr. Ingledue stated that he believed that after the hotel is up on the corner the remaining three lots could be sold for the price of the entire property.

Herman Nelson also went over many of the details of the hotel proposition, and Attorney Owen C. Emery outlined the steps that would have to be taken for the new company to absorb the old organization.

Dr. M. B. Ketchem then moved that it be the sense of the meeting that the proceedings as outlined be endorsed. This was seconded by Harrington Brown and the motion carried unanimously.

During the meeting two letters from architects, who are ready to finance and build the hotel, were read.

The first was from Architect Leonard Jones, 603 Grosse building, Los Angeles. It read:

"Confirming our conversation of recent date in regard to a proposed hotel at Glendale, California, wish to say that I have taken this matter up with a bonding house in Los Angeles and they have expressed the willingness to underwrite the bond issue for a building of 150 to 200 rooms, more or less. I think that I can get them to take care of this issue at 7 points off, making it 93 net.

"As soon as you have decided upon the matter I am willing to do as I have always agreed, to prepare your preliminary plans and the necessary sketches in order to present this to the bonding company and if I fail to finance it, it will not obligate the building committee in as far as any expenses are concerned.

"I will also put you in touch to lease the building.

"I would be glad to go into this matter with you as I am making a specialty of this kind of building and do a great deal of this work in and outside of Los Angeles."

The other letter was from Thomas Jewell, 425 Pacific Electric building, Los Angeles.

"This is to confirm my verbal statement, bearing on your hotel project, that we are ready to prepare plans and specifications for the building in question. I again assure you that if you will deliver a clear lot I can, with my associates, finance it to the full cost of the building, basing the cost of the building on $400,000 or less."

Arthur Lindley was present and assured those present that he is able to finance and erect a building to cost up to $500,000 on the lot.

Dr. C. F. Stuart outlined the aims and ambitions of the Glendale Advancement association, told what they had done and what they intended to do.

THIRTEENTH ANNIVERSARY OF BOY SCOUTS TO BE CELEBRATED IN DISTRICT

Mayor Spencer Robinson Issues Proclamation on the Observation of the Week, Recommending Proper Support of the Movement

PROCLAMATION

The Boy Scouts of America, an organization chartered by act of the Congress of the United States and devoted to the welfare of boys and the making of good citizens, is this week entering upon its thirteenth anniversary.

In common with other observing citizens, I believe that the program of the Boy Scouts of America reveals the way, quickens the pace and illuminates the path that leads to true and noble citizenship among our boys.

It is fitting, therefore, that we, at this time, give due recognition to this great organization.

I, therefore, do hereby recommend that the period marking the 13th anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scout movement in America, February 8 to 14, be observed in this city as "Boy Scout Week," and I strongly urge every man, woman and child in the community, for that period at least, to adopt the Boy Scout habit of "doing a good turn" to someone each day. I further recommend that all citizens of this commonwealth become familiar with the spiritual and chivalrous quality of the Scout oath:

"On my honor, I will do my best:

"One—To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout law.

"Two—To help other people at all times.

"Three—To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

SPENCER ROBINSON,
Mayor.

Today marks the dawn of the thirteenth anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America. For weeks the scouts and scout leaders of the Verdugo Hills District Council have been making plans for the local observance and celebration of anniversary week and today will see the first event scheduled on the program put in motion.

Mayor Spencer Robinson will be officially sworn in as an honorary second class scout when the local Boy Scouts will meet this afternoon at the City Hall. Last year the mayor was taken into the organization as an honorary tenderfoot scout but since then he has attended the summer camp at Catalina and according to the scouts "he made good," so they have decided to advance him one degree and invest on him the second class rank. The investiture service will be in charge of Scout Commissioner Charles L. Chandler.

A monster "parent and scout" banquet will be held at the new Congregational church, Friday evening, February 9. Every scout is to be host to his mother and dad. Each troop will have its own table which will be decorated by a special committee. A prize will be given for the best decorated table.

Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson, accompanied by Mrs. Porter Custer, will lead the scouts and their parents in some lively songs. Rev. Charles M. Calderwood will give the invocation. Scout Commissioner Charles L. Chandler will make the address of welcome. The Boy Scout orchestra will play some of the latest musical hits. It is planned to have everybody take part in the program and enjoy himself to the fullest extent.

Walter Wescott, who holds the hoior of being the first Eagle Scout in California, will be the speaker of the evening. He is president of the Student Body of the University of California, Southern Branch, and in addition is captain of this season's football team. He has lots of steam, snap and pep in him and gets his message over with a punch.

Two big events are scheduled for Saturday, February 10. A big parade will be held through the down town section Saturday morning. Each troop will enter a special float depicting some Boy Scout activity. All Boy Scouts of the Verdugo Hills District will meet at the Glendale Union High School promptly at 10 a. m. The parade will start at 10:30. It is expected to have the high school band head the parade.

A boy scout field meet will be staged on the high school athletic field starting at 1:15 p. m. The field meet will be run similar to an athletic meet with this exception—that all events will be boy scout activities. There will be eight different events as follows: First aid race, knot tying contest, dressing race, tug-of-war, water boiling contest, Paul Revere race, message relay race, and skin-the-snake contest. All boys and girls in the Verdugo Hills District are invited to attend the field meet regardless of whether they are scouts or not. A special invitation is extended to the general public as well.

The district court of honor will assemble Sunday evening, February 11, at the First Congregational Church at which time second class, first class and merit badges will be awarded. There are over 50 of these to be given out. Captain William C. Wattles, chairman of the district court of honor, will officiate. This session of the court of honor will be open to the general public and all are cordially invited to be present.

Salesmanship

Mr. Businessman—If you wanted to sell rubber you would not employ a dress goods salesman! If you wanted to sell real estate you would not employ a drug salesman. They may both be high-powered salesmen but in a different line or class.

Now, when you want high-grade, dignified publicity you want the best and that is what you are getting when you employ the services of the Cutler Selected Directory Service Company, which will serve you in 74 towns and cities of 1,000 or over population in Southern California, and please remember this Service is now being extended throughout the United States, in which there are 261 districts; each district is permitted to sell a given amount of stock to those desiring a clean, high-grade investment, thus making friends for the Service everywhere. It's an opportunity to invest your surplus funds where you receive a wonderful return on your investment.

A call at our office will convince you of the possibilities our Service has, and the possibilities of a profitable return on your investment, or call at the Broadway Pharmacy, 400 E. Broadway, Glendale, and operate the Cutler Selected Directory and have the real facts pertaining to it explained to you.

The bonds mature serially from 1926 to 1948, and are in the denomination of $1000 each. Mr. and Mrs. Gill expect to leave shortly afterward for an indefinite stay in Macomb, Illinois, the former home of Mr. Gill.

Some little anxiety was felt by the officers and crew of the R-6—the "jinx ship"— on its way down, on account of it being the trial voyage since being in the Mare Island navy yards undergoing repairs for the past year. This sub was sunk in Los Angeles harbor in October, 1921 with a loss of two lives and it was not until seven weeks later that it was raised. But aside from slight engine trouble and damage to one propeller, the trip was made in safety in 48 hours. This included an eight-hour lay-over for repairs.

Truths in Epigram

A vulgar man is captious and jealous, eager and impetuous about trifles. — Chesterfield.

History is only a confused heap of facts.—Chesterfield.

So very difficult a matter is it to trace and find out the truth of anything by history.—Plutarch.

ART AND THE CINEMA

A gathering of gentlemen in New York declared recently that there was no art in the cinema. They wondered how art could be introduced into the moving picture. Apparently the problem weighed heavily upon them.

This group is similar in respect of the value it places upon its own opinions, to the so-called intellectuals who solemnly declare there is no literature save that of the ultra modern school to which, of course, they belong. They have waved aside all fiction from that of Victor Hugo to O. Henry. All the early playwrights, with possibly the reluctant exception of Shakespeare, they efface by one smudge of their inky fingers. For poetry they cite the product of Ezra Pound and his imitators. They like the poisonous playlet that oozes nastily from the pages of the current magazine. They are the futurists and cubists and impressionists of letters. They annoy but they do not instruct.

To say there is no art in the cinema is to utter a denial of terms, for the production is all art; faulty as yet, feeling its way tentatively to better methods of expression. The trouble with the group, rendering with such easy confidence a verdict to the contrary, is that each has his own notion of the form in which the art should be presented. One suggested that the business should be taken up by select coteries, men of brains and character, probably, of which the speaker was a fair example. He would have the pictures fairly luminous with the spirit of art as interpreted by himself, and fit for the contemplation of such minds as the one he had the happiness to possess.

In other words, these men of bulging brow forget that not every brow bulges likewise, and some actually present a backward slant. Yet the pictures have to meet, in some measure, the varied demands of the vast majority. For the exceptionally endowed, there are available other methods of relaxation and instruction. The pictures that might appeal to them would be meaningless to the masses, and the masses do appreciate art. The masses like to see art interpret the life with which they are familiar. They are no collection of futurists.

It is true there is a commercial side to picture production. Of what human activity may it be said there is no commercial side? Painters, famous when they had been a long time dead, but starving while they lived, were commercial failures. Their canvasses were none the better for this. The producer of moving pictures is not working for posterity, any more than the cobbler is making shoes for generations yet unborn. He is a figure of the present, working for profit, and with the intention of amusing people of the present. By the people he does not mean the isolated group with an exalted and largely erroneous estimate of its mental status, and artistic yearnings.

LINCOLN'S FOREBEARS

A Chicago minister after long research, announces that all the biographies of Abraham Lincoln have been wrong concerning the personnel of the humble stock from which the great man sprang. He thinks he has established the identity of the grandparents. Concerning that of the paternal grandmother there had existed a known doubt. Nancy Hanks had been accepted as the maternal grandmother. This point is not conceded by the minister, who names, not Nancy, but Lucy Hanks for this honor.

All this is very interesting even if not vastly important. It does not change the social beginnings of the towering figure in American history. His origin was lowly. He was born to poverty. He progressed through his own efforts to the fulfillment of the noble purpose for which he had been raised of God. His name is written never to be effaced while time shall last.

It is not singular that confusion should have prevailed touching the antecedents of Lincoln. In the days of his boyhood society about him was but crudely organized. There was no system of records. It is doubtful if the birth of a child in the wilderness where pioneers fought and wrought for a livelihood, ever was officially recognized. There may have been none in the family capable even of making a note of it.

The vital history of Lincoln was in his life, not in the lives of his forebears.

MONEY TO EUROPE

Speaking in disparagement of the policy of isolation, a prominent merchant says "I believe we made a great mistake in not lending Europe the money she needed."

There is nothing to say on behalf of the policy of isolation. It is selfish in conception, impossible in practice; a haughty desire to be in the world, and yet not of it. Yet the gentleman seems to overlook the point that the attitude of Europe was precisely what presented the obstacle in the way of the loans he thinks would have been proper. In lending money, the lender always looks to his security. Here is Europe, already billions of dollars in debt, and manifesting not the slightest inclination to pay. It declines to undertake a course that might result in ultimate ability to pay. It is wantonly wasteful, expending its funds for the maintenance of armies.

Were Europe to begin a campaign for money by adopting disarmament as a common rule; if it would drop its quarrels over the relationship of the several powers to an oil field; hold its greed in check, and its proper rivalries within bounds, the capital that is held in such abundance in the United States might be imagined as finding ready course into European channels. It does not appear now that there could be any assurance of the return of money advanced to nations in the mood to fight, and in no mood for industrial pursuits.

AVOIDING HYSTERIA

Sometimes there arises the hope that after all, much of the tumult of Europe is sound and fury; less dreadful than it seems. There comes to mind the thought that perhaps diplomacy is voicing threats that it does not mean. One might even suspect persons in high place of bluffing in the belief that the bluff is in no danger of being called. At least, when the darkest view of Europe has been taken, and its last chance of survival has vanished, it continues to survive. So often has this occurred that there is small excuse for hysteria.

Frank Norris in one of his books told of two fierce dogs separated by a fence. They would race along the dividing line of pickets each snarling its hatred and determination to devour the other. Observers wondered how short and tragic would be the canine tragedy if the fence had not been there. Then one day the snarling dogs suddenly found themselves nose to nose at a hole made by the absence of some pickets. Horrors! What a fight there was to be! None dared to interfere, all waiting breathless for the climax. There was no climax. The dogs, suddenly silent, smelled each others muzzles briefly, and turning about, trotted calmly their respective ways.

In some ways the dogs of the Norris story had portrayed admirably the mental attitude of European diplomacy.

In the Pacific west it is doubtful if the appointment of Senator New to a cabinet position would create anything suggestive of enthusiasm. The theory that when a man loses one political job there exists moral obligation to supply him with another, is not universally accepted.

BLOWING UP THE GLOBE

The end of the world as predicted by the prophets seems now to be coming into the angle of vision of men of science. That is, we are getting some idea of how practically the whole thing can be smashed up.

Dr. Frank Crane

We have only to continue the present tendencies and universal ruin will be here shortly.

France, Germany, Russia and Turkey are all insane believers in the doctrine of violence, and hearty followers of the creeds of hate and vengeance. Of course, the end of that sort of thing is destruction. It never has been anything else and never will be. There seems to be no prospect of any sanity returning.

The United States is to all appearances thoroughly under the control of the insane group who imagine we can live isolated from the rest of the world and maintain our prosperity amid universal conflagration. Of course, the end of that is destruction. And there seems to be no intimation that at the present time the people are disposed to listen to anything in the way of reason.

Max Nordeau, who died the other day in Paris, in speaking of Europe, said:

"The vanquished will carry an intolerable exasperation, and the conquerors soon will be pervaded by deep disappointment and wrath when they realize the fact that their efforts, sufferings, and triumphs will have yielded them no palpable benefit, and will make their existence more toilsome, hard and gloomy."

F. B. Stockdale of Bayside, N. Y., calls our attention to the asteroids which float through the sky between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter. The general scientific theory seems to be that nature stubbed its toe here while trying to make a planet and spilled the beans.

Mr. Stockdale suggests that what are now asteroids were once a world like ours. It was inhabited by intelligent creatures who believed as we do, in fighting as a necessity, and prostituted science for the purpose of war.

Being older than we, they discovered what we are just on the threshold of discovering—atomic power. A great war arose. The knowledge of the power contained in the atom being common property, it got into the hands of vicious men who exploded the atmosphere and blew the whole thing to smithereens.

The suggestion that this may happen to us is not so absurd as it may seem.

It is a fact of common scientific knowledge that there is more power concealed in the breaking up of an atom than in any explosive yet discovered.

If we go on developing power and cannot develop intelligence and altruism enough to get ourselves out of the mud of hate, national vanity, isolation, vengeance and war talk, there is nothing to prevent the vast potentiality of atomic power being used by fools and devils.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

There is a lot to success in addition to industry.

That is an important thing of course.

But there are many things in a structure.

JAMES W. FOLEY

Not one is enough.

There is wall and door and roof and floor and support and window and foundation.

* * *

Industry may be the foundation of achievement.

But you cannot make a building all foundation.

You have to have walls and floors and a roof to rest on the foundation.

So in addition to industry we need purpose.

Direction.

* * *

A man stood once and threw bricks and mortar into the air.

Until he had flying bricks and scattered mortar going in every direction.

And a passer by approached him and asked what he was doing.

And the man said he was building a house.

* * *

And the passer by asked how he expected to build a house by throwing bricks and mortar into the air.

And the man replied that that was all a house was—bricks and mortar in the air.

So he continued to throw bricks and mortar upward.

* * *

And a great many of us are foolish as the man who threw bricks and mortar into the air.

We throw what we are pleased to call days' work into the air.

And there is little or no purpose in it.

But out of it all we expect to rear a structure of achievement.

A house may be bricks and mortar in the air.

But every brick is laid after a plan.

And all the mortar is spread with purpose.

And a wall is merely a pile of bricks and mortar.

But it is a pile of bricks and mortar laid after a plan and with purpose.

* * *

So industry needs purpose and plan.

A million men might dig a ditch as big as the Panama canal.

In the middle of the Sahara desert.

They might work with industry.

Never spare themselves in the digging.

But their labor would be wasted.

Because there is no need for such a ditch.

* * *

And they are opening the tombs of ancient rulers of Egypt.

The pyramids took the labor of thousands and hundreds of thousands.

And that labor was drawn from the raising of food and the building of irrigation canals and the tilling of fields.

It was wasted labor.

Merely to satisfy the vanity of kings.

* * *

So we need not only industry and purpose but we need labor with useful and wholesome purpose.

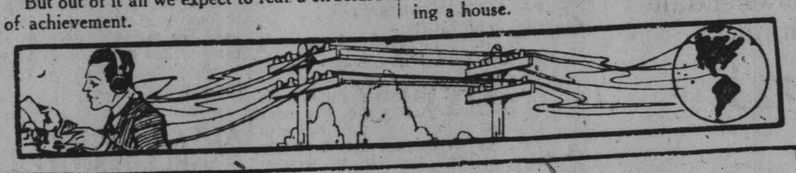
Labor that serves a common need.

The labor of the farmer and the builder and the herdsmen and the tanner and the poet and the artist and the doctor and the lawyer and the preacher.

* * *

And we need that labor with purpose and useful purpose.

We do not want to labor at throwing bricks and mortar into the air, thinking we are building a house.



Songs of the Poets

"If She But Knew"—By Arthur O'Shaughnessy (1844-1881)

If she but knew that I am weeping
Still for her sake,
That love and sorrow grow with keeping
Till they must break,
My heart, that breaking will adore her,
Be hers and die;
If she might hear me once implore her,
Would she not sigh?

If she but knew that it would save me
Her voice to hear,
Saying she pitied me, forgave me,
Must she forbear?
If she were told that I was dying,
Would she be dumb?
Could she content herself with sighing?
Would she not come?

WHY IS A BOOK?

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

When I was young and curious I wondered why people wrote books.

In my teens I investigated, and my mother shut me up for reading "Snarleyow, the Dog Fiend." I believe she considered it immoral. Anyhow, I later stole the book from its case and finished it, wide eyed and feeling hopelessly wicked.

But I did not find the immorality, though I did find a record of cruelty.

Last week I read two widely heralded recent novels; that's why I am thinking of the "dog fiend"; he seems so pure by comparison. Even the sailors who fought their captain through the dog take on a samite glow when compared to the modern men and women who shimmy and desert their mates ogle and leer through pages composed by two brilliant writers. For what?

Honestly, I believe miles of advertisement have been given to these books. When I had finished them I longed to have the house treated with chloride of lime and formaidehyde. The stories there retailed for the upcoming generation made the police courts look like houses of refuge for innocents; and I laid the volumns aside with much the feeling that I had been reading the log of a breeding stable, without its useful purpose.

And I am not easily shocked.

The point, however, that I am making is this: Does modern life consist of nothing better than the thoughts, actions and orgies there retailed? If so, it's time that somebody called a national convention of parents and laid some plan whereby a semblance of morality, decency and good faith may be salvaged for the unborn.

Authors are hog wild on sex.

I've looked with disfavor on censorship; but I had never conceived of "literature" as descending to the depths where we now find it. No wonder we have a juvenile problem.

Dad's in the counting house counting out his money.

Mother's playing bridge, dear. Aren't the women funny?

Daughter's at the dance hall shaking off her clothes.

Son's recording naked life as everybody knows.

At any rate everybody will know when son's next book comes out, or when they read his last.

Talk about Roman degeneracy. It's a Babylonian feast that America is staging; but where is the prophet who will show Belshazzar's guests the handwriting on the wall?

This is not pessimism. It's proven fact.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

HERRIN ACQUITS ITSELF

[New York World]

From whatever point it is viewed, the blanket acquittal of the defendants in the Herrin massacre trial is a defeat for civilized government in the United States. There is no doubt that the murders were committed. There can be no doubt that there were plenty of witnesses who could have placed the guilt where it belonged.

If the jury had sufficient evidence to convict yet failed to do so, the inadequacy of the jury system to cope with a community conspiracy could hardly be better demonstrated. If the jury did not have sufficient evidence to convict, the helplessness of a court in a similar situation is apparent, for nothing but a community conspiracy to shield the murderers could have cleared the miners indicted without incriminating others. The Ku Klux Klan of Mer Rouge and the lynch-law government of Harrison will both derive encouragement from this verdict. It is the most extraordinary modern example of the power of a local group to commit crimes of violence and then clear itself technically in the courts.

Yet this may not be the end of the story. The alibis of the Mer Rouge Klan have already begun to crack at the seams. To keep quiet forever about a murder is a task usually beyond human endurance, even when the facts are known to but one or two. At Herrin the whole town carries the burden of the guilty conscience which should bring further revelations before the case is forgotten.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

When the growth of Los Angeles is mentioned, it is to be regarded as including the growth of the adjacent territory. The cities in this territory are not part of the larger city, as many at a distance have been led to believe, but as the larger city has advanced, their progress has been in keeping.

HENRY JAMES

Los Angeles has a population nearing the million mark, and a manufacturing output close to a billion annually. It is amazing to reflect how brief is the span of years that has been marked by the vast changes. Recently at a convention of contractors and builders, the president in his address said:

"Where this building stands, and the adjacent park and the Biltmore hotel, I used to herd cows over the native grass. We had a semi-conscious population then of less than 10,000."

The strange part of this is that all the changes should have taken place within range of the memory of a man who still is active in business life. What the next few decades is to do for all this region is conjecture, but to make the conjecture appeals to the imagination. The time doubtless is coming when there will be a solid municipality from the mountains to the sea, a place of millions, one of the world's greatest ports, and manufacturing center sending its products everywhere.

But education, culture, the arts; are these to receive attention? The question is more vital than any question of mere size.

It realizes that no place grows without encouragement from within. It proposes to tell the world more about itself, and that will be an interesting story.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN DILGRIM

When Bill Dupuy was young and frisky he lived in Phoenix, Ariz. In those days the death rate of Phoenix compared to that of a machine gun company during the late war. Every sufferer from tuberculosis used to hurry out there after it was too late. Usually the poor chaps got there just in time to die.

"There was a heated competition between the undertakers," said B. Dupuy. "Many's the time I've been awakened in the dead of night by the sound of buggies rattling down the main street, and undertakers lashing their horses. They were racing for a new job."

That is a heartless sort of story, I'll admit, but somewhere in it is embedded a moral. Only the man on the job gets the business. Business is made up of competition and therefore the man most on the job gets most of the business. In those hustling days an undertaker who sat around the Adams house might have enjoyed the brisk and invigorating climate of Phoenix, but he would have needed an endowment to stay in the trade.

It isn't so long ago that there was a stroke of business to be done in Berlin. When the fact became known the men who wanted that business, representing several concerns, started on a race from New York. One man lost no time at all. He hustled from the train in Paris to the passport bureau, got his visa, taxicabbed to the train in Paris to the passport bureau, got his vise, taxicabbed to the telephoned friends, got their vises and then went downtown to ask about the next train. So far as they were concerned the next train had permanently gone. The man who had not waited at all had the contract in his pocket.

There are two Greek fruit stands near the corner of my street. One is getting the business because the boss watches the passers-by. If an eye brightens at the sight of his yellow oranges he is opening a paper sack and beginning to talk business. In ten years he can buy a palace in Greece, if he wants one.

There may be other secrets for business success. But the best secret of all is keeping on the job.

$30 WATER METER INSTALLATION FEE EXPLAINED

P. Dietrich, Supt. of Plant and Production, Addresses Club

A full account of how the charge of $30 for water service installation became effective has been made by P. Dederich, superintendent of plant and production of Glendale to R. E. Johnson, chairman of the civics committee of the Glendale Exchange club, who was instructed to go into this and other subjects by the Exchange club at a recent date.

Mr. Dederich's report is as follows:

"As per your request, I am setting forth below certain information, as to the reason why the city of Glendale is making a $30 service installation charge for water meters.

"The city of Glendale operated for several years without making a service and meter charge and at the time this charge was started. the department was in a very bad financial condition. We were at one time about $60,000 in debt and our credit was exhausted. At first the council made the charge $22 for service and meter installation, but on checking over the accounts, we found that the account showed a deficiency, so that charge was raised to $30, and since operating at this rate we find that it just about covers the cost.

"The water system was purchased, as you know, from private owners, who had formerly installed it just to sell off realty holdings, and was never designed to serve as a unit system for the whole city, nor were the pipes or equipment of much value only as a business. The water department in a city like ours with a population increasing so rapidly has demands for large amounts of new capital to take care of many improvements which are necessary to furnish good and continuous service, and I believe I am properly quoting the city council, that it was its opinion at the time of making these installation rates, the same should be charged to the person or property receiving the benefit from that service.

"At the rate service connections have been installed for the last eighteen months, it has required $35,000 annually to do this work or equal to one-sixth of the annual income of the water department. If the money for the service and meter installation should not be received from parties benefited, then the same would have to be obtained through rates for water used or bond issues. If the same rate were taken out of revenue, then rates would have to be raised, and if procured through bond issue, water users would eventually pay double the cost by the time principal and interest were paid.

"You requested also, information as to why services were not installed ahead of paving to prevent the tearing up of our improved streets. I heartily agree with the merit of the suggestion, that this should be done, but my experience and the information that I have obtained from superintendents of other water systems overcome the objections which are as follows:

"The service pipe installed and unused accumulates dead water and this dead water soon soon blackens and causes rust and shortens the life of the pipes to a very few years if unused. Also another very serious objection is that the large number of service pipes that would be extended along a main and the same being unused, naturally some of this stagnant and unused water would be continually coming back into the main and the same would be objectionable for domestic use. The investment required to install these pipes is another question to be solved. If the work is done under the street proceeds act, the same could be assessed against the property, but where streets are improved by private contractors for the subdividers, they do not want to carry any additional investment.

"This subject at various times has been discussed at water works conventions and up to the present time I do not know of a satisfactory solution. However, we are watching all of the new plans for water main installations on improved streets very closely and on streets where the same are nearly all built up except a few vacant lots, we install the services to the curb line.

"We are forcing with water most of our service pipes under the improved streets and only making an opening of about 28x6-in. for each service near the curb line.

"Last summer in the improvement of Brand boulevard from Colorado to Windsor road, we installed services on this street as nearly as we could judge the needs at the present time, but I have no doubt that the future will bring a class of buildings on this street that very possibly some different service will undoubtedly have to be installed to take care of the unforeseen conditions."

TOKIO, Feb. 8.—The roll of drums from the five quarters of the city yesterday announced to the lovers of sport the opening of the annual spring wrestling festival in the Kokugikan.

All week I had seen these huge long-haired men worshiping at the Shinto shrines about the city. Today 1,000 of these exponents of the Japanese favorite sport gather together to contest for the title of Hinoshita kaisan, "Universal Champion," and the superiority of east or west.

Do not mistake this style of wrestling with Juido. These men are what they call Sumo wrestlers. They are unknown in America. Sumo men are distinct type of Japanese. They are immensely heavy, beefy and gladiator-like, and often weigh over 400 pounds. You can imagine the picture they make among their own diminutive race. I saw one big brute yesterday who must have been over six feet, six inches tall.

After much ceremony—the Japanese are very ceremonious always—the huge hunks of humanity enter the ring in solemn manner and each does a turn around one of the posts, then rests a hand on each knee, then raises each leg high and wide in turn and stamps on the ground five times. The referee, who is dressed in a brilliant kimono and wears a funny hat, raises his heart-shaped fan and the two gladiators crouch down opposite each other with both fists planted on the ground in front of them. Neither can begin unless the other is ready to take his hands from the ground, and as a result, they often stall away for minutes at a time.

A wrestler is defeated if he is thrown by his opponent, if his foot crosses the ring of rice bags, or if his hands or knee touch the ground. The bouts rarely last over a few minutes and are more amusing than interesting to a foreign spectator.

Onishiki, the "Universal Champion," is the Babe Ruth of Japan—and he looks like him, only don't tell Babe that.

RAVENSCROFT'S LIFE A TOKEN OF MASONRY

Reverend W. B. Collins Preaches at Services for Departed Knight

Reverend W. B. Collins of Glendale, a personal friend of the deceased, delivered the sermon at the funeral service of Charles Henry Ravenscroft, which was held Wednesday afternoon at the First Methodist church in charge of Glendale Commandery of Knights Templar. Part of his address follows:

"I am here representing the church at the request of the family of our departed friend and brother. Thirty years ago I was their pastor in New Albany, Ind., and both Brother and Sister Ravenscroft were members of my choir. Naturally the family has turned to me for just a few brief remarks on this occasion. The subject of my address is 'A Man and a Mason.' These terms are largely synonymous, not in the literal sense, but in the higher and more exalted sense and meaning of that term.

"Manhood is essential to Masonry, manhood in its highest development, for without this there can be no real, genuine Masonry. The better the man the better the Mason, and you can reverse this statement. We aim for the best physically. Mentally we get at the things that develop the mind and help to get better views of life and humanity. Morally our ambition is to always make men the better, and bring them into the high standards of living. In the principles of Masonry we develop truth and exalted manhood.

"It is not money, position or education that go to constitute the moral worth of a Mason, although they may help him to shine the brighter. But, in the lower walks of life we find often the very best types of Masonry. Immortality is the final goal of manhood and Masonry, the highest idea of existence. Is man destined to live hereafter or is he like a taper which burns for a moment and is then extinguished forever? If this life was all there was to existence we could not afford to live. Were there no future we would be without comfort here on earth. Symbolic Masonry teaches us immortality. Did we not expect to meet our brother again, today would be a sad farewell, but out yonder in God's great future we are anticipating a blessed immortality, and this hope buoys us up in our hour of trial. When we lay away our brother's form today, which so many have known and loved, we expect by and by to meet him again, and our thought of immortality reaches out into the great eternity.

"But Masonry is not salvation. Masonry helps make us men and gives us a better hold on life as men. Instinctively we turn to God for the bright and better revelations which come through Him. Remember, that in addition to being a Mason and a man in the truest sense of the term, our brother was also a Christian, and his faith in the infinite God was settled and fixed without a doubt. For three years Brother Ravenscroft and I labored together in the church at New Albany in the work of the Lord. He did his work wisely and well, laboring for God and humanity. He was a devoted brother. When I came to Glendale it was with the pleasure of again meeting him. I can say truly in memory of our brother that he was a man, a Mason, a kind husband and father, a Christian gentleman in every sense of the term. Now his body has fallen into rest, his spirit is with God, and by and by we shall meet him again."

GARLAND GAS STOVE IS NOW IN THE CITY

The Newton Electric company has made a departure and has added to its stock in trade the nationally known Garland Gas Ranges. This is in line with its policy to handle nationally known household equipment.

"We believe," said Mr. Newton, "it is an advantage to the public to have opportunity to purchase articles that have so demonstrated their merit as to acquire national reputation and justify national advertising.

"Its special feature is its burner so constructed as to permit the bottom of the utensil to be half an inch nearer the burner than in any other gas stove and this means an increase of approximately 150 degrees of heat over the ordinary star burner.

"This advantageous feature is due to the shape of the burner which has little 'airports' which allow an inrush of air around each individual jet, and this makes it possible for the flame to be brought nearer the utensil without smoking it. The 150 degrees of heat is equivalent to approximately 10 per cent extra heat in the flame.

"Another important feature is that the Garland weighs about 25 pounds more than the average range and is more rigid and protected from any sag of oven or top.

"A valuable accessory is the automatic oven regulator thermostatically controlled which enables the housewife to keep a constant temperature after setting the regulator at the proper heat for beans, angel cake, or whatever she chances to be cooking, a schedule of heat for these articles being printed on the regulator.

"Our company installs and connects the stoves which range in price from $55 to $140, the highest priced models having an 18-inch oven, with regulator, and being made of white enamelled material."

DRAPERY SHOP TO OPEN IN COURT SHOPS

Realizing the need in Glendale for an exclusive drapery shop, George J. Lyons, for many years a resident of Glendale, will open on Saturday, in shop number eleven of the Court Shops at 211 East Broadway, just such a shop.

Mr. Lyons had charge of the drapery department of Bullock's for six years and that of the Holland Wooly Rug company of Los Angeles for five years. During this time he amassed a lot of valuable ideas on draperies.

"I have long felt the need for such an establishment," said Mr. Lyons, "and now that I am going to open I want people who are building homes to consult me before installing their draperies. I will make all plain curtains free of charge."

A MILLION YEARS
By CHAS. H. SHINN
U. S. Forest Service

We take it for granted that everyone of us likes to hear the folklore stories which come down from forgotten ancestors, and like to know what modern science says to some of them. We have been rereading Frazer's book on "The Golden Bough" of Diana's sacred grove at Nemi, in the Alban hills. The essential portions of Frazer's twelve volumes on this subject are now condensed into a new one-volume edition. Also, the more recent students of prehistoric man are now pushing back the approximate date of his appearance on this planet. The "half million years" of Wells and Van Loon are extended by Church-Warden and others to "one or even two million years," and primitive man is now described as a forest-dwelling pygmy from the headwaters of the Nile.

No matter how all this began. But now, in the midst of our complex modern civilization, there are countless millions who carry within themselves, deep-hidden, hardly suspected, the sense of kinship to the wild places. If turned in the right direction and concentrated upon thoughts of individual responsibilities for the full development of our natural resources, this million-year-old instinct finds full scope in ardent comprehension of the significance of forests for health and recreation, for the wood supplies of hundreds of industries, for our agriculture, and in six words, for "all that makes life worth while."

We turn to the last report of Chief Forester W. B. Greeley, in which he tells us that the "accessible timber of the world" is even now "inadequate to the requirements," and that our paper-pulp supply from Canada is likely to be shut off. He says that between five and seven million people visit our forests every year. Before long there will be ten million campers, and the only forest laws which they must obey will be prevention of fires and proper cleanliness in camp. May the time soon come when everyone in America gets an outdoor vacation, and makes full use of it.

The latest carefully collected statistics of the forests of the entire world make it plain that now and henceforward the United States must become able to supply all our needs for structural woods—or go without. It seemed utterly absurd to the average man some thirty years ago when foresters began to say that this time would come. It is now here.

The Forester says that during the past six years forest fires have averaged 33,500 yearly, and have each year swept over 7,088,000 acres. This means everywhere, not merely in the national forests, and the damage has been especially severe in the south-eastern group of states, which have as yet far too little forest-fire protection. As we have said many times before, most of these fires are man-made. Forester Greeley says that the way out is to teach the twenty-three millions of school children in America to love our forests and protect them from any more man-made fires. Then the timber yield can be made to equal the needs of the country.

"What is all that row about over at your place, Tommy?" asked a neighbor.

"Why, ma's settin' hens," explained Tommy, with a glance toward the barn from which came the sound of angry voices, "an' pa's farm demonstrator and he's tryin' to show her how to do it scientifically."—Life.

Commcerialism in Athletics
By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Taint of commercialism, the greatest evil of sports, is not confined to professional activities. Its influence and its bad effect are beginning to be felt in amateur athletics.

Paul H. Henning, chairman of the registration committee of the central A. A. U. district, and one of the most active supporters of amateur athletics in the United States, recently suspended Joie Ray because the famous little middle-distance runner had participated in an unsanctioned boxing tournament.

Big athletic clubs in New York which were planning to feature the appearance of Ray at their winter meets protested. Henning was overruled. Ray was reinstated and Henning resigned.

Henning declared it was a question of gate receipts and that violation of the rules was not considered.

* * * * *

Until the big clubs began to fall for the temptation of the "gate," amateur track and field athletics under the jurisdiction of the A. A. U. were the best governed sport in the world. It is still an efficient organization. It has been criticised for autocratic measures at times, but strict discipline requires strict methods.

The A. A. U. is still a wise and scrupulous supervisor of athletes but it should apply the same zealous attention to the clubs.

To give an example of the lines of distinction drawn between the athletes and the clubs, a recent incident is recalled. Several big clubs advertised and drew big crowds on the promise that many star athletes would compete. The stars failed to appear and the crowds naturally protested with yells of "the bunk."

Loren Murchison, Jack Scholz and Sol Butler, three prominent athletes, were summoned to appear before the registration committee and explain why they did not appear. It developed that none of them had signed an entry blank and that the club had used their names without their permission.

Scholz claims that it is not the first time that he has been made the victim of such practices.

Instead of being so ever ready to plaster a suspension on an athlete, the A. A. U. ought to give some of the club officials a vacation.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.—Advertisement.

WILLIAM FARNUM IN WESTERN SHOW AT GLENDALE

A thrilling story of the west, "Moonshine Valley," a big William Fox production with William Farnum as the star, will come to the Glendale theatre tonight and Friday.

The popularity of Farnum grows greater with every new picture in which he appears. And there is good reason for this. William Farnum's pictures are always blooded thrills. Farnum represents man as we all wish to see him—a man who fights for right, who battles against injustice, large and small.

In "Moonshine Valley" he has a beautiful background for his work—most of the scenes in the play are laid in the western foothills.

Sadie Mullen, a new comer to the screen, is Farnum's leading lady. He is also supported by another newcomer, Dawn O'Day, three years old. The youngster is said to be one of the cleverest children appearing on the screen. Holmes Herbert, always a favorite, plays a prominent part. Jean, the dog, an old favorite with the fans, has a part which, it is said, he enacts to perfection.

The story is by Mary Murrillo. Herbert Brenon, one of the foremost directors of film plays, handled the direction.

ROBIN HOOD MECCA OF MANY TO HOLLYWOOD

"Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood" and Grauman's Hollywood Egytian Theatre will lure scores of local people to the film capital this week where the cinema classic is in the seventeenth and probably last week of its phenomenal engagement. For Sid Grauman, master showman, has dedicated this week at his palatial Hollywood photoplay house to the Southern California cities and towns that have so loyally supported him in his various theatrical enterprises. It is to be known as 1923 Suburban Week and the out-of-town folk are to have "right of way" in the foothill suburb made famous by the Grauman Theatre.

For the convenience and pleasure of out of town patrons, a mail order department will be maintained at Grauman's Hollywood Egytian Theatre all this week and written, telephoned or telegraphed requests for reservations will be promptly and efficiently handled through this office.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE ANCESRAL BEE

Oh, Master of Heraldry, make me a crest;
I am bursting with ancestral pride:
I want to be classed with the world's truly best,
As some one washed up at high tide.
I have friends who're descended from prophets and kings,
Or so they would have me believe,
But what do I care for such trivial things—
I'm descended from Adam and Eve.

I have friends who tell much of ancestral estates,
Of forests and streams and broad lands,
And they revel in scutcheons and acres and dates,
Till nobody quite understands.
Beside me, they're modern, these vain boasters are,
And estates that they claimed were so fine
In their ancestral lore I can discount by far,
For the Garden of Eden was mine.

And some can look back to the Mayflower's trip,
And they tell of ancestors who came
To land on these shores on that populous ship,
And think they can put me to shame.
But what do I care for their pretense and sham,
Not one of them can toe the mark
With me, for of lineage ancient I am,
Were my ancestors not in the Ark?

So, Master of Heraldry, make me a crest
With a fig leaf and apple and such,
To show my ancestry the oldest and best
And put all these boasters in Dutch.
I'll just show these braggarts whoever they be,
Who go back to Charlemagne's line
For an ancestral tree they're not in it with me,
For I go back to Adam for mine!

HEALTH DEPT. ISSUES WARNING OF EPIDEMICS

Dr. Kammerling, city health officer, says measles and scarlet fever are becoming rather prevalent and for that reason the public is requested to notify the health department when any eruptive skin complaint develops. The law makes it the duty of parents to notify the health department even though no physician is employed.

The doctor also says there have been a good many cases of influenza but in a mild form, chiefly bronchial.

Doran Street P.-T. A. Holds Meeting

A meeting of unusual interest was held by the Doran street P.-T. A. Wednesday afternoon at which the program was furnished by pupils of the school.

Mrs. St. Clair Whytock tendered her resignation as president and the vice-president, Mrs. Harry Ellis, accepted the presidency, Mrs. W. F. Carroll being elected vice-president.

As a means of replenishing the treasury of the organization members voted to give a series of silver teas at their homes, at the rate of one a week.

Plans for participation in the bazaar to be held by the Federation of Parent-Teacher associations at the high school February 23 were discussed, the Doran association to have the candy booth.

The program included recitation by Hazel Franklin, song by Jean Lyons, recitation by Jean McKee, violin and flute duet by Clifton and Charles Brown, accompanied by their mother at the piano, recitation by Browning Hervey, song by Billy Gray, pianologue by June Piercey.

A good talk about the coming bond issue was made by Superintendent R. D. White, and at the close of the program refreshments of tea and cake were served.

EARLIEST FORM OF THE VIOLIN

was the rebec, a loud and harsh lute-shaped mediæval musical instrument, with one, two, or three strings, originally plucked, but later played with a bow. It was probably of Arabian origin.
